FLOOR DRAIN

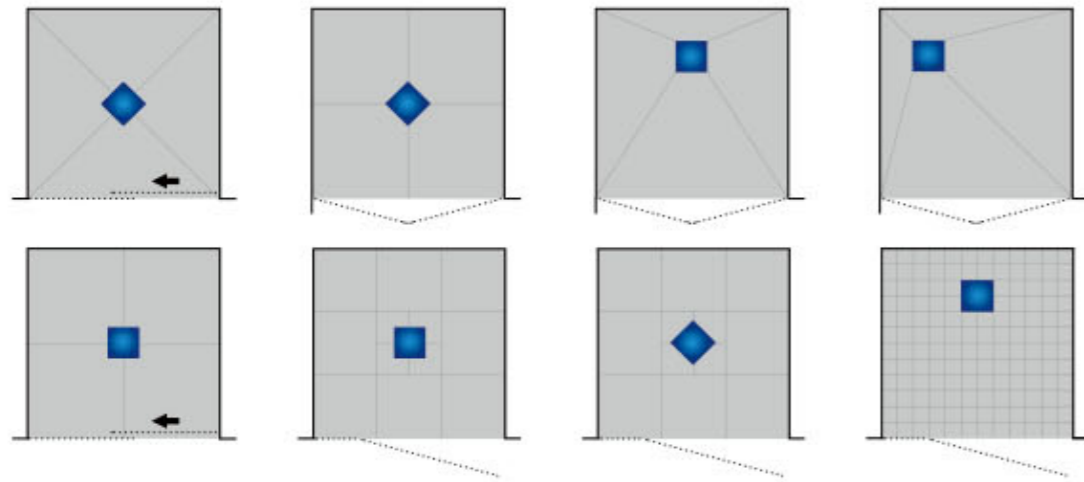

DESIGN SCHEME FOR CONVENTIONAL STRIP FLOOR DRAIN BATHROOM

Simple and fresh strip floor drain can be perfectly matched to any bathroom, and according to their own style and taste, they are designed in the vicinity or corner of various walls.

DESIGN SCHEME FOR CONVENTIONAL SQUARE FLOOR DRAIN BATHROOM

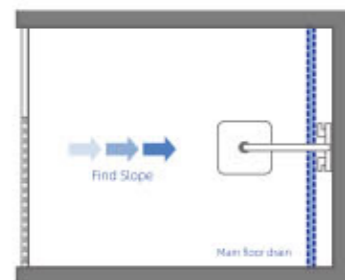

According to own taste, and life style with your own preference bathroom environment, to make your characteristic design style. The simple and fashionable square floor drain works well with any standard floor tile.

RECOMMENDED DESIGN SCHEME FOR STRIP FLOOR DRAIN BATHROOM

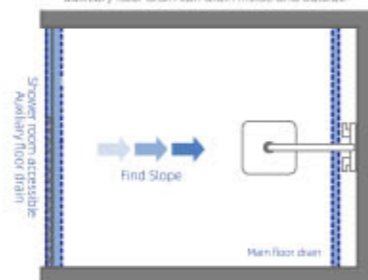

Single floor drain layout

Against the wall, drainage slope 1-3%, inclined floor drain

Double floor drain layout

Main floor drain against the wall, drainage slope 1-3%, oblique floor drain. Suitable for barrier-free shower room design, auxiliary floor drain can drain inside and outside.

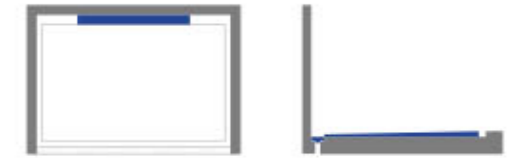

←Please consult for more floor drain layout combinations→

DESIGN SCHEME FOR HIGH-END STRIP FLOOR DRAIN BATHROOM

DESIGN OF RETURN WATER TANK

In the floor drain area, a width should be reserved according to the drainage hole position or the form of the floor drain. A 50MM width drainage groove should be reserved against the wall on the other three sides, and the depth of the drainage groove should not be less than 20MM. The pedal surface and drainage groove should be inclined slightly to ensure that there is no water accumulation.

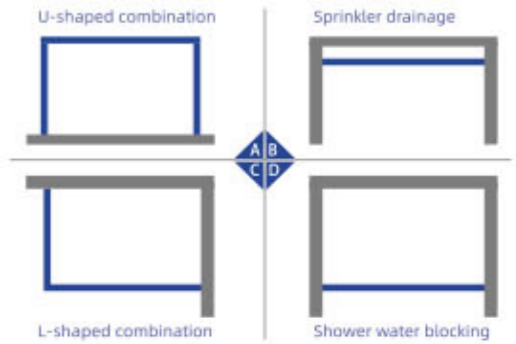

SLOPE DRAINAGE DESIGN

The common location of floor drains is designed directly below the shower, and long floor drains are also used as the main design. The slope drainage design of the shower area should be such that the position of the floor drain should be at least 10MM lower than the pedal surface, and the other three sides should be against the wall or water blocking. From the position of the water blocking strip, stone or ceramic tiles should be laid on a sloping surface towards the floor drain. The height difference of the slope surface should not be less than 10MM, and water should flow into the floor drain in one direction.

INSTALLATION FORM OF LINEAR FLOOR DRAIN PRODUCTS

The common location of floor drains is designed directly below the shower, and long floor drains are also used as the main design. The slope drainage design of the shower area should be such that the position of the floor drain should be at least 10MM lower than the pedal surface, and the other three sides should be against the wall or water blocking. From the position of the water blocking strip, stone or ceramic tiles should be laid on a sloping surface towards the floor drain. The height difference of the slope surface should not be less than 10MM, and water should flow into the floor drain in one direction.

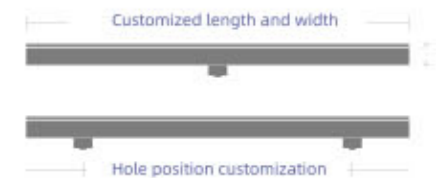

FLOOR DRAIN NON-STANDARD CUSTOMIZATION

Length and width customization: The size can be customized according to the actual length/width on site.

Hole customization: The drain can be shifted, or multiple drains can be customized.

Color customization: Custom floor drains can be customized according to the requirements of a variety of colors.

Other customization: According to different design schemes, design joint Angle, arc and other special-shaped customization.
